

Happy New Year Earth Angels,

The other day I spent the whole morning calculating and understanding my personal numerology. I use numbers on a daily basis by paying close attention to the numbers that seem to come up often in patterns or grab my attention. For some reason, I was really drawn to understand my personal numbers this year. Numerology is the study of numbers where a specific vibration of each number corresponds to events and personalities, the study of numerology goes as far back as Pythagoras. Although nothing is set in stone due to our free will; using tools such as numerology gives guidance or insights into our own personal energy vibration or light. I want to emphasize this is not a tool to separate yourself from others; these are tools that can help you understand your path. So I thought it would be helpful to give a couple of tools to help you with this New Year. I will italicize the information that I have received from my guides and angels to differentiate the general information regarding numbers. Please note that I am not an expert numerologist; my curiosity and a push from my helpers brought me to look more into numbers. So if you feel drawn to study your numbers further please do so, this will also help you understand the people and situations in your environment. There are many other personal numerology numbers, but I am only going to focus on the personal and universal year.

What is your Personal year number: Your personal year represents where you are in the nine-year cycle of personal growth.

How to calculate your personal year: Birth Month + Birth Day + Current year

Example: January 2, 2007 = 1+2+2+0+0+7=12, when you end up with double digits you then reduce the numbers by adding them together 1+2 = 3

The personal year for January 2nd = 3

Universal Year: The Universal year is the year in which the entire earth is vibrating to for the current year.

How to calculate the current universal year: add all of the numbers of the current year and reduce the numbers if needed.

Example: 2007 = 2+0+0+7=9

The number 9 is a time for endings, vision, transformation, spiritual consciousness, global awareness and perfection, realization of life purpose.

This is a time of great change we are awakening to our true identity realizing our true nature and authentic power as children of light. These are exciting times as our true nature is revealed to ourselves and each other we are realizing that home is not some foreign place that you dream of that has all of the nuances of paradise; home is now, home is the awakening of the son and daughter of the All that is. We have the wisdom that heaven is where ever The All is, thus heaven is where ever we are, as we can never be separate from it. Thoughts are the only gap that hold the belief in separation, you know that thoughts can be changed and are changing. Keep dreaming big, keep believing in yourself, keep asking (for what you want and need).*
